When Your Home Poses a Risk

Most people envision themselves living safely and independently at home for their entire lives. The thought of the “what ifs” never cross their mind.

Is this realistic or even safe?

Would it surprise you to know that people spend more time scheduling a vacation, than they do thinking about and planning for their aging.

According to an AARP study, 83% of older Americans want to remain independent and age in place in their current home.

What most people don't take into account is that as we age, our needs change, and with change comes a multitude of challenges.

DID YOU KNOW?

- Every “18 seconds” a senior has a fall related ER visit, with most falls occurring in or around the

IS YOUR HOME SAFE?

According to the U.S. Consumer Products Safety Commission, more than 600,000 older Americans are treated each year in the ER, as a result of injuries sustained in their home.

Don't wait for a crisis - take a proactive approach.

Would you be surprised to know that 50% of all home accidents can be prevented through the implementation of 3 simple steps?

1. Home safety audit
2. Home repair of identified issues
3. Home modification as a person's abilities and needs change

Ziac's roles in supporting Successful Aging, is to conduct home safety audits.

Components of a Home Safety Audit

1. Meet with the home owners to discuss current areas of concern, challenges that the home owners may be experiencing, as well as the clients' potential evolving needs.
2. Conduct an in-depth tour of the home, in order to identify areas in need of repair, areas that may pose a risk to the home owners, potential areas of concern, as well as areas which may pose a challenge over time as the owners age.
3. Create a written Home Safety Audit Report for the home owners, broken down by each area of the home and outside property, outlining potential areas of concern and why; as well as identifying potential assistive devices and/or modifications that may improve the owners' quality of life.
4. Meet with the home owners to review the Home Safety Audit Report, and discuss a viable action plan moving forward.

A SUCCESSFUL AGING ACTION PLAN

"Aging in Place is the ability to live in one's own home and community safely, independently, and comfortably regardless of age, income, or ability level."

Successful aging extends beyond physical health; incorporating cognitive function, social support, and satisfying life experiences.

Maintaining Independence While Being Pro-Active

No one looks forward to an unexpected personal or medical situation that catches you off guard; which can be overwhelming, costly, time consuming, and complex.

The time to plan for your aging is now, while you are still healthy, active and able to make decisions on your own.

A personalized “Successful Action Plan”, can help prevent unexpected events from turning into a crisis, which have the potential to negatively impact on your health, safety, independence, and quality of life.

Don't Wait for a Crisis Plan Now For Your Future

One thing we can all be sure of is we're aging, and with aging comes challenges.

- Not all problems occur as a crisis, but evolve in a series of warning signs spanning weeks, months, or even years.
- While most seniors are healthy and function at a high level, it's inevitable that as we age, issues will surface related to our independence.
